

BLIND WALLS

Route

Trek Brand Store Bike Route
16 walls | ±12 km

Start

Tuinzigtlaan 22
4814JE

GALLERY

BUUF BUUR

Poort van Schoenmakers, Breda

The mural is dedicated to the Koepelgevangenis Breda, an iconic building with a rich and layered history. The former prison, built according to the panopticon principle, revolved around visibility, control and the separation between the inside and the outside world. For decades, it was a place where freedom and restriction literally stood opposite each other.

Over the years, various remarkable events have taken place within - and surprisingly, also outside - these walls. One of the better-known stories is that of Hulda 'Tottie' Kiel, who managed to escape in 2010 via a crawl space beneath the building. Her story is part of a longer history of attempts to escape from this place - including escapes in 2002 and a major breakout by seven war criminals in 1952.

BUUF BUUR

Poort van Schoenmakers, Breda

The mural is dedicated to the Koepelgevangenis Breda, an iconic building with a rich and layered history. The former prison, built according to the panopticon principle, revolved around visibility, control and the separation between the inside and the outside world. For decades, it was a place where freedom and restriction literally stood opposite each other.

Over the years, various remarkable events have taken place within - and surprisingly, also outside - these walls. One of the better-known stories is that of Hulda 'Tottie' Kiel, who managed to escape in 2010 via a crawl space beneath the building. Her story is part of a longer history of attempts to escape from this place - including escapes in 2002 and a major breakout by seven war criminals in 1952.

BUUF BUUR

Poort van Schoenmakers, Breda

The mural is dedicated to the Koepelgevangenis Breda, an iconic building with a rich and layered history. The former prison, built according to the panopticon principle, revolved around visibility, control and the separation between the inside and the outside world. For decades, it was a place where freedom and restriction literally stood opposite each other.

Over the years, various remarkable events have taken place within - and surprisingly, also outside - these walls. One of the better-known stories is that of Hulda 'Tottie' Kiel, who managed to escape in 2010 via a crawl space beneath the building. Her story is part of a longer history of attempts to escape from this place - including escapes in 2002 and a major breakout by seven war criminals in 1952.

BUUF BUUR

Poort van Schoenmakers, Breda

The mural is dedicated to the Koepelgevangenis Breda, an iconic building with a rich and layered history. The former prison, built according to the panopticon principle, revolved around visibility, control and the separation between the inside and the outside world. For decades, it was a place where freedom and restriction literally stood opposite each other.

Over the years, various remarkable events have taken place within - and surprisingly, also outside - these walls. One of the better-known stories is that of Hulda 'Tottie' Kiel, who managed to escape in 2010 via a crawl space beneath the building. Her story is part of a longer history of attempts to escape from this place - including escapes in 2002 and a major breakout by seven war criminals in 1952.

BUUF BUUR

Poort van Schoenmakers, Breda

The mural is dedicated to the Koepelgevangenis Breda, an iconic building with a rich and layered history. The former prison, built according to the panopticon principle, revolved around visibility, control and the separation between the inside and the outside world. For decades, it was a place where freedom and restriction literally stood opposite each other.

Over the years, various remarkable events have taken place within - and surprisingly, also outside - these walls. One of the better-known stories is that of Hulda 'Tottie' Kiel, who managed to escape in 2010 via a crawl space beneath the building. Her story is part of a longer history of attempts to escape from this place - including escapes in 2002 and a major breakout by seven war criminals in 1952.

BUUF BUUR

Poort van Schoenmakers, Breda

The mural is dedicated to the Koepelgevangenis Breda, an iconic building with a rich and layered history. The former prison, built according to the panopticon principle, revolved around visibility, control and the separation between the inside and the outside world. For decades, it was a place where freedom and restriction literally stood opposite each other.

Over the years, various remarkable events have taken place within - and surprisingly, also outside - these walls. One of the better-known stories is that of Hulda 'Tottie' Kiel, who managed to escape in 2010 via a crawl space beneath the building. Her story is part of a longer history of attempts to escape from this place - including escapes in 2002 and a major breakout by seven war criminals in 1952.

BUUF BUUR

Poort van Schoenmakers, Breda

The mural is dedicated to the Koepelgevangenis Breda, an iconic building with a rich and layered history. The former prison, built according to the panopticon principle, revolved around visibility, control and the separation between the inside and the outside world. For decades, it was a place where freedom and restriction literally stood opposite each other.

Over the years, various remarkable events have taken place within - and surprisingly, also outside - these walls. One of the better-known stories is that of Hulda 'Tottie' Kiel, who managed to escape in 2010 via a crawl space beneath the building. Her story is part of a longer history of attempts to escape from this place - including escapes in 2002 and a major breakout by seven war criminals in 1952.

BUUF BUUR

Poort van Schoenmakers, Breda

The mural is dedicated to the Koepelgevangenis Breda, an iconic building with a rich and layered history. The former prison, built according to the panopticon principle, revolved around visibility, control and the separation between the inside and the outside world. For decades, it was a place where freedom and restriction literally stood opposite each other.

Over the years, various remarkable events have taken place within - and surprisingly, also outside - these walls. One of the better-known stories is that of Hulda 'Tottie' Kiel, who managed to escape in 2010 via a crawl space beneath the building. Her story is part of a longer history of attempts to escape from this place - including escapes in 2002 and a major breakout by seven war criminals in 1952.

BUUF BUUR

Poort van Schoenmakers, Breda

The mural is dedicated to the Koepelgevangenis Breda, an iconic building with a rich and layered history. The former prison, built according to the panopticon principle, revolved around visibility, control and the separation between the inside and the outside world. For decades, it was a place where freedom and restriction literally stood opposite each other.

Over the years, various remarkable events have taken place within - and surprisingly, also outside - these walls. One of the better-known stories is that of Hulda 'Tottie' Kiel, who managed to escape in 2010 via a crawl space beneath the building. Her story is part of a longer history of attempts to escape from this place - including escapes in 2002 and a major breakout by seven war criminals in 1952.

BUUF BUUR

Poort van Schoenmakers, Breda

The mural is dedicated to the Koepelgevangenis Breda, an iconic building with a rich and layered history. The former prison, built according to the panopticon principle, revolved around visibility, control and the separation between the inside and the outside world. For decades, it was a place where freedom and restriction literally stood opposite each other.

Over the years, various remarkable events have taken place within - and surprisingly, also outside - these walls. One of the better-known stories is that of Hulda 'Tottie' Kiel, who managed to escape in 2010 via a crawl space beneath the building. Her story is part of a longer history of attempts to escape from this place - including escapes in 2002 and a major breakout by seven war criminals in 1952.

BUUF BUUR

Poort van Schoenmakers, Breda

The mural is dedicated to the Koepelgevangenis Breda, an iconic building with a rich and layered history. The former prison, built according to the panopticon principle, revolved around visibility, control and the separation between the inside and the outside world. For decades, it was a place where freedom and restriction literally stood opposite each other.

Over the years, various remarkable events have taken place within - and surprisingly, also outside - these walls. One of the better-known stories is that of Hulda 'Tottie' Kiel, who managed to escape in 2010 via a crawl space beneath the building. Her story is part of a longer history of attempts to escape from this place - including escapes in 2002 and a major breakout by seven war criminals in 1952.

BUUF BUUR

Poort van Schoenmakers, Breda

The mural is dedicated to the Koepelgevangenis Breda, an iconic building with a rich and layered history. The former prison, built according to the panopticon principle, revolved around visibility, control and the separation between the inside and the outside world. For decades, it was a place where freedom and restriction literally stood opposite each other.

Over the years, various remarkable events have taken place within - and surprisingly, also outside - these walls. One of the better-known stories is that of Hulda 'Tottie' Kiel, who managed to escape in 2010 via a crawl space beneath the building. Her story is part of a longer history of attempts to escape from this place - including escapes in 2002 and a major breakout by seven war criminals in 1952.

BUUF BUUR

Poort van Schoenmakers, Breda

The mural is dedicated to the Koepelgevangenis Breda, an iconic building with a rich and layered history. The former prison, built according to the panopticon principle, revolved around visibility, control and the separation between the inside and the outside world. For decades, it was a place where freedom and restriction literally stood opposite each other.

Over the years, various remarkable events have taken place within - and surprisingly, also outside - these walls. One of the better-known stories is that of Hulda 'Tottie' Kiel, who managed to escape in 2010 via a crawl space beneath the building. Her story is part of a longer history of attempts to escape from this place - including escapes in 2002 and a major breakout by seven war criminals in 1952.

BUUF BUUR

Poort van Schoenmakers, Breda

The mural is dedicated to the Koepelgevangenis Breda, an iconic building with a rich and layered history. The former prison, built according to the panopticon principle, revolved around visibility, control and the separation between the inside and the outside world. For decades, it was a place where freedom and restriction literally stood opposite each other.

Over the years, various remarkable events have taken place within - and surprisingly, also outside - these walls. One of the better-known stories is that of Hulda 'Tottie' Kiel, who managed to escape in 2010 via a crawl space beneath the building. Her story is part of a longer history of attempts to escape from this place - including escapes in 2002 and a major breakout by seven war criminals in 1952.

BUUF BUUR

Poort van Schoenmakers, Breda

The mural is dedicated to the Koepelgevangenis Breda, an iconic building with a rich and layered history. The former prison, built according to the panopticon principle, revolved around visibility, control and the separation between the inside and the outside world. For decades, it was a place where freedom and restriction literally stood opposite each other.

Over the years, various remarkable events have taken place within - and surprisingly, also outside - these walls. One of the better-known stories is that of Hulda 'Tottie' Kiel, who managed to escape in 2010 via a crawl space beneath the building. Her story is part of a longer history of attempts to escape from this place - including escapes in 2002 and a major breakout by seven war criminals in 1952.

BUUF BUUR

Poort van Schoenmakers, Breda

The mural is dedicated to the Koepelgevangenis Breda, an iconic building with a rich and layered history. The former prison, built according to the panopticon principle, revolved around visibility, control and the separation between the inside and the outside world. For decades, it was a place where freedom and restriction literally stood opposite each other.

Over the years, various remarkable events have taken place within - and surprisingly, also outside - these walls. One of the better-known stories is that of Hulda 'Tottie' Kiel, who managed to escape in 2010 via a crawl space beneath the building. Her story is part of a longer history of attempts to escape from this place - including escapes in 2002 and a major breakout by seven war criminals in 1952.